Slade McLaughlin used to defend healthcare providers against lawsuits. He was very good at it and very successful. But he switched sides, and for a very good reason.

A true disciple of Jim Beasley Sr., Slade is driven by something bigger than love for the Almighty Buck. He is driven by a need to help people who deserve help, and to hold professionals and institutions responsible for their indifference and incompetence.

Slade has won millions of dollars in malpractice cases since joining The Beasley Firm in 1994. Along with Jim Beasley Sr. and Jim Beasley Jr., he worked tirelessly on the first World Trade Center lawsuit, which successfully showed that Iraq provided "material support" to bin Laden and al Qaeda in the September 11, 2001 terror attacks. That lawsuit resulted in a $104 million judgment.

His ten years as a Beasley mainstay earned Slade a listing in the 2003-2004 edition of The Best Lawyers in America. For the second year in a row, he was honored as one of Pennsylvania's "Super Lawyers" in Philadelphia Magazine's "Super Lawyers," and was voted as a "top 100" lawyer in Pennsylvania.

Slade accompanied Jim Beasley Jr. to Mount Everest's Base Camp. He also ran with the bulls in Pamplona, Spain. The bulls have never gotten over it.
